arXiv:1911.01547v2 [cs.AI] 25 No

On the Measure of Intelligence

François Chollet

Google, Inc.
fchollet@google.com

To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence. To make deliberate progress towards more intelligent systems we need a clear definition of intelligence.